We have $log_2(n) * c = s$ where n is the size of the input, c is the time for one single line and s is the number of seconds. We solve for c to obtain $c = \frac{s}{log_2(n)}$. This gives us the time for a single which we use to estimate both linear search and binary search for $n = 10^{15}$.